FrontCounter BC payment guidelines

Last updated on April 27, 2026

FrontCounter BC accepts payments for various areas of the provincial natural resource sector, including Crown land, water licensing, fish and wildlife, aquaculture, angling and more. The payment guidelines information is to help guide clients on the different types of payments and payment channels available.

FrontCounter BC does NOT accept payments for property taxes, mines inspection fees or violation tickets from hunting and angling offences.

Forestry payments, including stumpage fees, must be paid at a natural resource district office.

Crown land rent and security payments

To make a Crown land rental or security fee payment through online banking, follow these steps:

- When setting up the payee account for online banking with your financial institution, ensure you choose the exact payee name listed in the table below
- If your financial institution is not listed in the table below, please contact them directly to see if they offer online banking and if a Crown land account is one of their payment options
- Security payments via online banking can only be accepted from the name of the tenure holder. Third parties (a name other than the tenure holder) must use another method of payment
- When making an online banking payment, the "account number" is your Crown land file number (7 digits) and can be found on the right-hand side of your invoice, below the invoice number. Retain proof of payment
